A BIBLIOGRAPHY OF SOUTH CAROLINA IMPRINTS, 1731-1740

By DOUGLAS C. MCMURTRIE

The aim of the following pages is simply to record the output of the Charles Town press, other than newspapers, during the first ten years of its activity. Of the forty-two titles, twenty-two are listed with the notation "no copy known," which simply means that a fairly diligent search has failed to discover any extant copies, although contemporary evidence shows that they were actually printed. Two others (Nos. 31 and 41) are presumed to be still in existence, although copies of them have not been located.

Of outstanding interest is No. 2 of the list, bearing the imprint of George Webb. This printer has hitherto been a somewhat shadowy figure, and it is a pleasure to be able to record an actual specimen of his work at Charles Town.

At some future time, I hope, there will be an opportunity to publish a comprehensive and detailed study of the first Charles Town printers and their work, for which I have already collected and prepared a considerable body of material. A summary of this material appears in the March, 1933, issue of the Transactions of the Bibliographical Society (The Library), of London.

The purposes of publishing the present record will be achieved if it aids in the discovery of copies of any of the titles listed as not now known or of any titles not here listed. Information of the location of copies other than those located herein will be welcomed.

A proclamation "strictly forbidding any Person whatsoever to Survey or admeasure any of His Majesty's Lands in this Province, until he have a Warrant from me for so doing; . . ." Warrants for the survey of lands may be granted on "paying the Fees appointed by Law, as in a Table ordered to be set up in the Secretary's Office in Charles-Town, . . . where (on Application) every one may view the same, . . ."

This broadside has no imprint, but minute examination indicates that it came from the same press, and probably at the same time, as the following title, which has the imprint of George Webb.

WHEREAS I have thought fit (by and with the Advice of His Majesty's Council) to dispose of His Majesty's Lands, not yet purchased, to such Persons as, willing to take out Grants for the same, and to cultivate and improve it as His Majesty directs:

AND WHEREAS several Persons have heretofore received Deputations from former Surveyors General, to run out and admeasure Lands, which Deputations being now superseded by His Majesty's Commission, appointing JAMES DE JOHNS, Esq; Surveyor General of this Province; I HAVE therefore thought fit (by and with the Advice of His Majesty's Council) to issue this my Proclamation, strictly forbidding any Person whatsoever to survey or admeasure any of His Majesty's Lands in this Province, until he have a Warrant from me for so doing; and that he has received a Deputation and Power from His Majesty's said Surveyor General, to act under him as His Deputy, and not presume to sign or return any Certificates of Lands by them run out or admeasured, for which they had not legal Warrants from me, as they shall answer the contrary at their Peril. And the said JAMES DE JOHNS, Esq; being also His Majesty's Auditor and Comptroller of his Revenues in this Province, all Persons concerned are to take Notice thereof, and that the said Auditor and Comptroller is ready to enter all Grants and Conveyances for Land, pursuant to an Act of Assembly past for that Purpose this present Session of the General Assembly, upon Application made to him at his Office in Charle-Town.

AND WHEREAS His Majesty has impowered and directed me to dispose of his Lands in this Province not yet granted or purchased, under several Rules and Restrictions: And I thinking it for His Majesty's Service, and that of this his Province, that the said Lands should be disposed of for the better strengthening and settling the same, and for encouraging New Comers,

A printed form for the grant of land, with blank spaces for names, descriptions, dates, etc.

The typography resembles that of the broadside of November 27, 1731, which has the imprint of Thomas Whitmarsh, and obviously differs from that of the Council minutes issued November 4th with the imprint of George Webb. The printing is therefore assumed to be that of Whitmarsh. As the surveying and granting of public lands was evidently an urgent matter in South Carolina at the end of 1731, it is also assumed that this blank form was printed at about the time that the surveys of the public lands were authorized, or at some time in November or December, 1731.

No American first edition of this has been found in any bibliographies consulted.

[Proposals for the Opening of an Insurance Office against Fire. Charlestown: Thomas Whitmarsh? 1732.] [6]

No copy known. In The South-Carolina Gazette of January 22, 1732, was printed an advertisement of a meeting of freeholders held at the house of Henry Gignilliat on the 18th when proposals were made for the opening of an "Insurance Office against Fire: which will be printed and given Gratis at the aforesaid House, on Monday in the afternoon, for the Perusal and Consideration of all Persons concerned."

[The Quit-Rent Roll Law. Charlestown: Eleazer Phillips, Jr., 1732.] [7]

No copy known. Copy for this law was given to Phillips by an executive order dated February 11, 1732, "in order that it may be Printed and made more Publick." The fact that the law was actually printed is further attested by mention of it in the stock of Eleazer Phillips, senior, in his notice of intention to "depart the Province" published in The South-Carolina Gazette of April 5, 1735.

No copy known. Advertised in The South-Carolina Gazette of August 11, 1733: "In convenient Time will be Published, Or, to be Honest, Reprinted . . ." But the publication of the Gazette was suspended with the issue of September 8, 1733, and Thomas Whitmarsh died a very short time thereafter; it is uncertain, therefore, whether the printing of this tract was completed before the operation of the printing office ceased. There was no mention of it in any subsequent issue of the Gazette, and the title does not appear in the list of Whitmarsh books taken over by Lewis Timothy.

Evans 4207: "This is the earliest Wesley collection, antedating the London edition by about a year. A reprint of this edition was made in London about 1875. The copy [of this edition] in the Lenox Collection of the New York Public Library is peculiar in having the last page blank, with a catch-word on page 73."

No advertisement or other mention of this was found in any contemporary issues of The South-Carolina Gazette. No copy known. Advertised in The South-Carolina Gazette of September 14, 1738, as "Just Published."

It was this pamphlet, apparently, that started the controversy in print between James Killpatrick and Thomas Dale.

[The Letter of Laicus. Charles-Town: Printed by Lewis Timothy, 1738.] [29]

No copy known. A communication on the subject of inoculation for smallpox, printed in September 1738, according to the following from The South-Carolina Gazette of September 14, 1738: "Two letters, one sign'd Laicus and the other from Philirenus are come to Hand; but as there is a fresh supply of foreign News, and the Generality of my Customers shew a Dislike to have any more of Inoculation in the Gazette, the Letter of Laicus will be published next week by itself, and may then be had of the Printer thereof."

[The Case of Miss Mary Roche, more fairly related, &c. By Thomas Dale, M.D. Charles-Town: Printed by Lewis Timothy, 1738.] [30]

No copy known. Announced in The South-Carolina Gazette of October 19, 1738: "On Saturday next will be published . . ." This was first mentioned in the Gazette of September 21st: "In a few Days will be published . . ." But the issue of October 12th explained that "the Publication hereof has been long delayed, by reason of Sickness, myself and Son having been visited with this Fever, that reigns at present, so that neither of us hath been capable for some time of working much at the Press." There was no issue of the Gazette on October 26th, "by reason of Sickness," but the paper appeared again on November 2, and this pamphlet probably appeared at about that time. It is certain that it was actually issued, for a reply to it was published early in 1739 (see No. 32, below).

Whether the Acts to March 25, 1738, were actually published separately in that year is not known. No mention of their publication has been found in The South-Carolina Gazette. The volume here described continues the Acts down to April 11, 1739; it, too, is not mentioned in the Gazette.

The Acts to March 25, 1738, end on p. 104 (verso of folio Cc[2]). On p. 105 (first page of signature Dd) begins "An Act for the further security and better defence of this province," dated September 18, 1738. The last act in the volume, dated April 11, 1739, is followed by a page containing a "Table," or index covering the entire volume from p. 3 to p. 137.

However much of the volume (including the title page) may have been printed with the intention of publication in 1738, it seems clear that the sheets were held and the work not actually issued until the acts for another year had been included.

JOSIAH SMITH'S DIARY, 1780-1781

Annotated by MABEL L. WEBBER

In consequence of the within Resolve of Congress the five following Gentlemen were appointed as Commissioners vizt. Col^o. John Bayard, D^r. James Hutchinson, M^r. George Meade, M^r. W^m. Bingham, and M^r. Jacob Barge, who appointing M^r. Meade as Treasurer to the Board, wrote letters to the Executives of Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and the New England States, Soliciting their help towards the filling up of said Loan &c engaging Interest to be paid on the money so lent. but from the General Scarcity of Hard Cash in those several States, no assistance was obtain'd from any other than the State of Massachusetts, whose Executive issuing Orders for a Brief to be publish'd in all their Churches raised the Sum of 6296 Dollars, including Governor Handcocks own Subscription of 400 Dollars, the whole was on donation and excepting 100 Dollars paid in Boston to Captain Jacob Milligan, and the like Sum to the Widow of Rev. Moses Allen, late of Medway in Georgia, was at different times remitted by Bill, to M^r. Meade, the last of it being paid the 28th September 1782, Money being more plenty in the State of Pennsylvania, 15, 132 Dollars was by 86 Persons subscribed on Loan, and 3312 Dollars by 236 do. on Donation chiefly obtain'd by the Address of Mess^{rs} Bayard & Hutchinson to whom the necessitous Carolinians and Georgians are much obliged for their Industry but to their misfortune only—Dollars of the first and of the latter has been paid & divided among them.—for dealing out these moneys, the Delegates of Carolina & Georgia, appointed from among the Exiles, Mess^{rs} Benjamin Guerard, Thomas Savage, Charles Florian Mey, John Blake, and Philip Prioleau on the—who by the 13th November following had receiv'd from M^r Meade, and distributed amongst their Brethren £2837.3.11, or 7565 72/90 Dollars, say 855 72/90 on Donation and 6710 on Loan. but said Committee being soon after annihilated by the departure of three of 'em for Carolina—the Delegates were under the Necessity of forming a New Committee on the December, say Thomas Savage, James Fisher, Daniel DeSaussure & Josiah Smith. who upon examining into the State of the Subscriptions on the Loan & Donation, and the too large allowance, made by the first appointed Committee of 100 Dollars per Share on Loan, were under the necessity of reducing each Share to 30 Dollars, only in order to afford some supply to a large number of the Exiles. who had hitherto been content to wait till those of their Brethren that were preparing to sett out for Carolina, had been satisfied or accommodated at the Rate of 100 Dollars per Share—and for which Loans they have respectively given Notes to the Delegates, or rather printed receipts, promising a repayment thereof when called upon for it with Interest from the date. in this way Dollars have been dealt out to Persons on Loan, and Dollars on Donation. the latter at three Several payments of 10. 15. & 10 to a Share, as per Receipts for the Same, the last receipts being dated on the 30th September 1782.—These Donations &c were of great service to our Exiles & particularly so to those who cou'd not get into any kind of business, so as to earn a little money and without w^{ch} Several woud have been near to Starving, and that those Persons, feeling for their distressed Scituation, might be had in lasting remembrance, have hereto annex^d their Names, and amount of Subscriptions for both Loan and Donation. to wit.

we believe, no one in his sphere, ever died more universally or justly regretted. We shall forbear entering on the particulars of his character, merely because we are sensible, that we cannot do it adequate justice. Norfolk March 19

Died on Thursday night last, after a long and severe illness, which he sustained even with cheerful resignation, Major John Saunders, an officer who lived among us for eighteen or twenty years past, in the engaging habits of kindness, friendship and affability, beloved and respected by all. He was a father to his soldiers, a brother to his officers, and the cordial friend and companion of his fellow-citizens. The strict discipline of the Garrison at Fort Nelson; the neatness, arrangement, and high order of his military position, evince the undeviating attention he paid to the duties of his profession, and the master skill of an experienced commander—... (Wednesday, March 28, 1810.)

The Rev. Mr. Flinn, will agreeably to the request of the Gentlemen of the Bar, deliver a Sermon on the death of the Honorable Judge Wilds, in the First Presbyterian Church, on Sunday Morning next.

Philadelphia, March 19.

Died, at three o'clock in the morning of the 15th inst. at Lancaster, Mrs. Catharine Antes Snyder, daughter of Colonel Frederick Antes and consort of Simon Snyder, Esq. governor of this Commonwealth, in the 33d year of her age.

The gentlemen of the bar at Sumter court, having heard of the death of the honorable Judge Wilds, called a meeting of the members present,...

Died, on the 24th inst. after a painful illness of eleven days, which she bore with christian fortitude, Miss Marie Jeanne Aurora Abel, in the 15th year of her age, daughter of the late Mr. J. B. Abel, formerly a planter of the island of St. Domingo, and Marie Ann Josephine Lechais, his wife. She was born in New York, 2d of May, 1795....only child...(Saturday March 31, 1810).

Died, on Wednesday the 4th inst. and interred in the family burying ground at Hobcaw, Mr. Joseph Tobias, in the 46th year of his age, a native of this place, and late of Ashepoo. An aged mother and wife, with nine children have to deplore a loss to them irreparable.

The Friends and Acquaintances of Mr. William Dunbar, are particularly invited to attend his Funeral at 2 o'clock This Afternoon, from his late residence, (Four-Mile House). (Friday April 6, 1810.)

Charleston, April 4, 1810.

The American Revolution Society, convened upon the occasion of the recent decease of General WILLIAM WASHINGTON, feel themselves prompted by duty and sensibility, to give utterance to their sentiments upon that calamitous event. They knew the deceased, and to many of this Society, of which he was a member, he was intimately known, could not but have remarked in him a felicitous combination of mind and heart, rarely united, which qualified him to be eminently distinguished as a soldier, and esteemed as a citizen; which produced in him great virtues, untarnished by the association of correspondent vices; which rendered him modest, without timidity; generous, without extravagance; brave, without rashness; and distinguished, without austerity—which imparted to his conduct, and mildness to his manners; solidity to his judgment, and boldness to his achievement—which armed him with an equanimity unalterable by the frowns of adversity, or the smiles of fortune; and steadiness of soul, not to be subdued by the disasters of defeat, or elated by the triumphs of victory. When the Society also recollects, that he was a gallant soldier, enterprising without ambition; encountering danger, not for his own renown, but for his country's independence—that he was a patriot, inflexible without obstinacy, warm without passion, and zealous without bigotry—that in private life, he was useful without parade, liberal without ostentation, amiable without weakness, and honorable without fastidiousness; they cannot permit him to descend in silence to the tomb, and refrain from expressing some mark of reverence and affection for his worth: however frail and evanescent their testimonial may be, it will nevertheless manifest that they honored the deceased when living, and that they cherish the remembrance of his virtues and his services, after death—

Therefore Resolved, That the Members of this Society, do wear crape on their left arms for 30 days, as a tribute of respect to the memory of General William Washington.

Resolved, That the President be requested to transmit a Copy of these Resolutions to Mrs. Washington, and to express to her the deep regret of this Society for the great loss she has sustained,

Resolved, That the foregoing Resolutions be published in the Gazettes of this city.

By order of the Society,
William Crafts, President

John Cripps, Treasurer and Secretary.

Departed this life, at his residence in Williamsburg district, on Saturday morning the 31st of March, after a lingering illness, which he bore with christian fortitude and resignation to the will of Heaven, Mr. Joseph M'Kee, in the 77th year of his age—upwards of 70 of which he had been a constant resident of said District. He has left an aged, and disconsolate relict, with a numerous circle of friends, to mourn their loss—He had ever been a steady supporter, and for a number of years past, an elder in the Presbyterian Congregation, or Church of Bethel, in Williamsburgh. . . . (Saturday, April 7 1810.)

The Carolina Gazette, Friday, March 30, 1810.

At Sandy-Hill, on the 16th inst. terminated the existence of General WILLIAM WASHINGTON, and added the name of that gallant veteran to the melancholy list of deceased American worthies. His health had been bad for some years, but during the last six months he sustained a complication of disorders, become too powerful for longer resistance—his moral and religious impressions, the one emanating from a well turned mind, the other the result of reading and reflection, disposed him to view the approaches of death with a composure and equanimity truly characteristic—History has done justice to his illustrious services and brilliant exploits, during his military career, in faithfully recounting his particular achievements; but without the knowledge of certain personal circumstances, conspicuously displayed on those occasions, and which only could be known to his fellow soldiers in the field, under whose notice they immediately fell; for the General, naturally modest and retiring, in his common intercourse with society, manifested little or no indication of that prowess by which he was so eminently distinguished in the day of battle, when his whole soul was developed with an energy and animation of the most ardent cast, and that gave to his transcendent intrepidity its genuine heroic character. In the performance of such civil duties as were assigned him, he was conscientiously exact, ready to obey with alacrity every call of his country, as long as a constitution impaired and broken in her service permitted. In private life and the circle of his particular friends, his urbanity and domestic virtues, the recollection of them can only cease with those on whom they have made the most heartfelt impression.

The Friends and Acquaintances of Major George Reid, particularly the Officers and Members of the Cincinnati Society, and the Officers of the Militia, are invited to attend his funeral from his House on the Bay, This Afternoon, at four o'clock. (April 7, 1810.) . . . To the lamented Major George Reid, not only this feeble attempt but every tribute of affectionate regard is due. From a family whose felicity he formed, and from a society whose hours of convivial mirth were cheered with his exhilarating presence. . . tyrant death has summoned his departure, in the 53d year of his age, and after a faithful discharge of those duties with which he was invested—he now adds one more to those deceased worthies that have preceded him. Taking an early leave of native country he established his residence in America, and became an active and indefatigable agent in the promotion of the independence and liberty of the United States; his private [life] affords no less gratification to very mortal mind, than his public rank. Shall acts of benevolence secure eternal regard from heaven? Then will the tear of unaffected regret, while it flows at the name of Reid, over the cheek of alleviated distress, dissipate itself in the anticipation of the awarded recompense of "that power above us who delights in virtue." Can that man assert that he was not a firm friend to his country, to humanity, an active citizen, an indulgent parent and husband. The impossibility of such sentiments, the profound grief of his surviving friends, the speechless agony of his afflicted widow; the silent sorrow of his disconsolate descendants declare. (Monday April 9, 1810.)

Married, on Thursday, the 5th inst. by the Rev. Doctor Hollinshead Mr. Joseph M. Cleiland, planter, of Christ Church Parish, to Miss Susan J. Vernon, of this city. (April 9, 1810.)

Mrs. Ann Torrey, in the 19th year of her age, who departed this life on Saturday last, of a consumption, was formed by the hand of nature to please the eye, and interest the heart. . . . She has left a husband to know the loss of a most affectionate wife. . . . (Wednesday, April 11, 1810)

Died at London, Tiberius Cavallo, esq.—He has presented to the world many works on Air, Electricity and other important subjects—he was a native of Naples. (Thursday, April 12, 1810.)

YATES SNOWDEN

So much has been so well said of the Third Vice-President of the South Carolina Historical Society, Yates Snowden, first known to this writer, as a school-mate, at A. Sachtleben's Male Academy, on Beaufain Street, Charleston, South Carolina, in 1872, that it might be well to confine this appreciation to what would bear upon his connection with this Society; but that would be difficult.

In 1877, at the age of nineteen, he was elected to the position of Secretary and Treasurer of the South Carolina Historical Society, founded in 1855 and reorganized in 1875. This position he held for eight years, when he gave up the practice of law for the pursuit of journalism and, after following that for eighteen years, served South Carolina as Professor of History at her University, for the last twenty-nine years of his life.

In collaboration with H. G. Cutler, as the author of a History of South Carolina, published in 1920, he covered a broad field and, in the half a million words or more of that compilation, treated interestingly many subjects, which time had obscured. He also contributed not a few pamphlets of interest; but what perhaps may be considered as his greatest achievement is a descriptive poem, entitled A CAROLINA BOURBON, published in the eighties, in which he fixed, in lasting colors, the slave-holder, at his best.

A work of eleven stanzas, embracing less than five hundred words, it is marked by an accuracy that is admirable and enlivened by a delicate touch of humor, not devoid of pathos, under which it points to and mounts steadily towards "the long ridges of the peaks of song." If not history, it has secured through art the historical preservation of a type, which the following extracts may indicate; but if not at least they do reveal the soul of the author in his highest aspiration:

"A heart of nature's noblest mould,
By honor tempered and controlled—
Oh! look not in a soul so bold
For mock contrition.

For when the die of war was cast,
 And through the land the bugle blast
 Called all to arms, from first to last
 For Carolina;
 Careless of what might be his fate,
 He gave his all to save the State,
 He thought, thinks now (strange to relate)
 No cause diviner.

* * * * * * * * *

Two hundred slaves were in his train;
 Six thousand acres' broad domain;
 (His ancestors in fair Touraine
 Had no such lot)

* * * * * * * * *

Perhaps too easy life he led—
 Four hours afield and ten abed,
 His other time he talked and read,
 Or else made merry
 With many a planter friend to dine,
 His health to drink in fine old wine—
 Madeira, which thrice crossed the line
 And gold-leaf sherry.

* * * * * * * * *

And now to live within his means,
 He dons his gray Kentucky jeans;
 (His dress in other times and scenes
 Was drap d'été.)

* * * * * * * * *

His fortune gone, his rights denied,
 For him the Federal Union died
 When o'er Virginia's line the tide
 Of battle rolled."
